As Catholics, we have been challenged by the Lord to love our enemies (Mt 5:44). So, if we are called to love our enemies, certainly we are expected to love those who sit next to us in church. Right? And yet, how many times have newcomers to a church been greeted with a dirty look because they were sitting in someone else's seat?! Nevertheless, our 2000 year Catholic tradition is one which has always upheld the value of welcoming the stranger, as we would welcome Christ himself and providing hospitality to all. Dr. McCorry travels the country working with parishes and dioceses, helping them to develop spiritual approaches to creating more welcoming parish communities.
